

GORZ

GORZ (or gorza; Av. vazra-, Mid. Pers. warz, Kurd. gurz “club, mace”), also referred to as gorz-e gāvsār/sar (ox-headed club/mace), a weapon often mentioned and variously described in Iranian myths and epic (

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Mary Boyce, “On the Sacred Fires of the Zoroastrians,” BSOAS 31, 1968.

Idem, “On the Mithra’s Part in Zoroastrianism,” BSOAS, 1969, p. 26.

John Dowson, A Classical Dictionary of Hindu Mythology and Religion, Geography, History, and Literature, New Delhi, 1984.

Prudence Oliver Harper, “The Ox-Headed Mace in Pre-Islamic Iran,” Papers in Honour of Professor Mary Boyce, Acta Iranica 24, Leiden, 1985.

John R. Hinnells, Persian Mythology, London, 1973.

Šāhroḡ Meskub, “Fereydun-e Farroḡ,” Irān-nāma/Iran Nameh 5/1, 1364 Š./1985, pp. 12-46.

Pahlavi riwāyat, tr. Mahšid Mir-Faḡrā’i as Rewāyat-e Pahlavi: Matn-i be zabān-e

Fārsi-e miāna, Tehran, 1367 Š./1988.

Hans Reichelt, Avesta Reader, Strassburg, 1911.